.exe - WinePkg 1.0.1-5 You can find all information regarding WinePkg, Wineprefix and Wineprefix-user on the WinePkg website. Remember: The Wineprefix created by WinePkg is only valid for use within the Wineprefix-user folder. In case you want to use it in the Wineprefix folder you should create a new one. Now you should have the feeling of what a Wineprefix looks like. You can get it back with the following command: cd then wineprefix or wineprefix new foldername What you should expect is: A folder named wineprefix with a number for the version of the installation. The full path of the folder. In my case: /home/acoustical/wine/drive_c/Users/Max/Pictures/Testwineprefix. Now you have the possibility to start the application with this path: wine /path/to/wineprefix/path/to/application.exe Example: wine /home/acoustical/wine/drive_c/Users/Max/Pictures/Testwineprefix/path/to/test-app.exe If this doesn't work you can find the right path by searching it in the Wineprefix folder. If you want to disable the launcher for the application you can use this command: ~/.wine/drive_c/Users/Max/Pictures/Testwineprefix/path/to/test-app.exe You can remove the folder from the Wineprefix-user folder with this command: wineprefix delete And remove the folder from the Wineprefix folder: wineprefix -r A menu item has been added to the main menu, and is available in the context menu of the app. At least two new shortcuts have been added to the system menu: Win-T to open the task manager and Shift+Win-T to open the task manager without the tray icon. It is now possible to drag multiple items from an explorer window and drop them onto a 82157476af
